SAN GERVASIO

At the biggest archaeological site on the island you can be part of the Mayan culture and its mysteries. San Gervasio was a strategic point for the commercial and political development of its era and also a sacred Mayan center. Inhabited from 200 A.D. until the Spanish conquest, San Gervasio was a sanctuary of the Goddess Ixchel, the fertility goddess, drawing pilgrims from the entire Mayan world to worship her.

PUNTA SUR

The Ecological Reserve Punta Sur Park is located on southern tip of the island. It is the most important Ecotourist Project of the Cozumel Foundation of Parks and Museums. The Park encompasses an outstanding variety of natural landscapes. Extending for more than one hundred hectares, it is the combination of lagoon environment with its coastal humid soil and mangrove jungles that are the setting of a mosaic of environments. The lagoon shelter is a very rich and wide variety of wild flora and fauna. The marine part of the reserve includes areas with white sand beaches and extraordinarily transparent waters.

CHANKANAAB PARK

Chankanaab Park is one of natures' greatest treasures in Cozumel., designated in 1980 as a National Park as well as a refuge area for protecting marine flora and fauna of the western coast of the Island of Cozumel.

Chankanaab lagoon whose meaning in Mayan language is "small sea" is a world-renowned ecosystem and natural aquarium. Ocean streams foster the growth of coral as well as the development of large communities of fish, mollusks and crustaceans. Its survival depends mostly on the constant flow of water through amazing under water caves. The Botanical Garden entices you to listen to the song of the wind through the largest bamboo curtain on the Island, identify 60 different palm trees, admire water lilies and walk through a passage of orchids. These are the perfect place for bird watching and enjoy the dinosaur like "iguana" lizards basking in the sun.

MUSEO

Cozumel's Island Museum offers a geographic view and history of Cozumel in four exhibition rooms. Conceived as an instrument of ecological information and education, it harvests convincing in children and young people on the preservation of equilibrium and its fragile ecosystems.

"La Casita Maya" (The Small Mayan House) is a representation of the way of life and ancient customs, and it is watch over by people from Mayan origin.

This tour really takes you to the most interesting sites of Cozumel. The tour starts with a visit to San Gervasio, mythical Mayan ruins surrounded by the jungle at the north side of the island. Your guide will tell you all about Ix-Chel, the island's goddess, how she was worshipped and the mysterious beliefs around her. After this cultural start the tour will take you to the east side of Cozumel along the scenic road with the most beautiful beaches. You will get the chance to take incredible shots of the overwhelming scenery here. The tour ends with an amazing snorkeling adventure in Chankanaab National Park, where you can also walk around in the botanical gardens, see reproductions of Maya monuments, see the friendly dolphins and sea lions and enjoy a drink and a snack at one of the beach restaurants.

HORSEBACK RIDING

Ride back in time through the sacred land of the Maya, the oldest and most mysterious civilization in the world. You will be riding through the lush rain forest of Cozumel, listening to it's most amazing sounds and discovering Cozumel's hidden tropical savanna's. Look out for the birds and different animal species that may come your way. You will visit El Cedral, Cozumel's oldest Mayan ruin. It's historical tradition dates back to the island's discovery on May 3rd, 1518 and re-population in 1847 due to the war of Casts taking place in the State of Yucatan. This site was long ago decided both to farm and to marine activities. On your ride back be sure to take notice of the natural sounds and sights around you. In this natural paradise the Maya lived in harmony and this feeling of nature and man becoming one still lives on today.

Cozumel is located just 40 minutes by sea from Playa del Carmen, and the frequent and modern ferries make the cross through easy and comfortable. From the mainland, a lot of tours and visits to the Mayan world are available. The most important and monumental city of the Mayans, is without doubt Chichen Itza, a must-do of the Mayan Rivier.

CHICHEN-ITZA

Chichen Itza is the most famous and extraordinary City of the Mayan Civilization, located in the neighboring State of Yucatan. You will discover the incredible spirit of impressive structures. The largest building is the 'Temple of Kukulcan' or also called The Castle, a 75 foot high pyramid topped by a temple from where you will have an amazing view. Other well known structures include the ball court, the site of day-long ritual games; 'El Caracol', the observatory, from which the Maya's traced the paths of stars and planets, the temple of warriors where you will see the reclining figure of 'Chacmool', a symbol for the Yucatan Peninsula. These are just a few examples of Chichen Itza's structures, the most captivating of all Mexico's archaeological treasures.

You can reach Chichen Itza by plane and by bus.
